

MPRnews

SPONSOR

Minnesota Today

Explore news, arts, and culture from around the state. We're your guide to what's clicking in Minnesota.

About Minnesota Today »

Follow us

Suggest a story

Become a fan

RSS feed

Statewide blog

< Proposed Copper mines ripe for buyout? | Main | Some cities see boost in local sales tax collections >

State business official takes Fargo Moorhead job

Posted at 2:52 PM on September 16, 2010 by Dan Gunderson (0 Comments)

The new head of the Greater Fargo Moorhead Economic Development Corporation comes from Minnesota state government.

Kevin McKinnon is currently Director of Business Development at the Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development. He starts his new job Oct. 25.

Ron Robson, a U.S. Bank Regional President and Chair of the economic development authority believes

McKinnon will be a good fit for Fargo Moorhead.

"Kevin brings a level of knowledge and expertise that is needed for the GFMEDC to lead our region to the next level of business activity," Robson said.

Fargo Moorhead has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the country.

The previous GFMEDC president left for a similar job in sunny Florida.

Post a comment

The following HTML tags are allowed in your comments:

+ Bold: `Text`

Sponsors

E-mail this page

Print this page

Save to Delicious

Submit to Digg

Share this

SEPTEMBER 2010

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30

Select a Month...

Master Archive

RECENT ENTRIES

Dispatch from northwestern Minnesota

Tough housing industry squeezes Marvin profits

National courts group recommends closing